SHERMAN-KENNEDY.

Such a fine wedding as that of yesterday at "Rochester," the beautiful suburban residence of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Kennedy, will long be remembered by those who were present. It was the occasion when the only daughter of the house, Miss Katherine, was married to Dr. William A. Sherman, of Newport, R. I.

The ceremony, which was at noon, was witnessed by relatives only, and was performed by Rev. Dr. J. J. Lansing, of the Green Ridge Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Dr. George E. Glavin, the former pastor of the church. About seventy-five guests were at the breakfast which followed, after which a large reception was held. Miss Salome Becker played the wedding march.

The bridal party stood in the reception room, where the decorations were in white and green, and were exceedingly elaborate. Miss Katherine, who had reached to the ceiling, and the mantel was banked with ferns and white neur-de-lis.

The bride, who is of the spirituelle type, dainty and petite, made a lovely picture in her snowy robes. She wore point d'Alencon lace over white satin and chiffon, and carried a shower bouquet of white flowers. Her veil was fastened with orange blossoms, and she wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom. The maid of honor, Miss Charlotte Lindenberg, of Columbus, O., had charming gown of white chiffon, with elaborate real lace. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Floyd, of Binghamton, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Elizabeth Hitchcock, of this city. Their frocks were remarkably pretty, and were of white mousseline-de-silk and lace. They carried blue helianthus. The ushers were Mr. Edward Sherman, brother of the groom; Dr. Lucius C. Kennedy, brother of the bride, and Williston Barker, the groom's cousin, of Newport.

During the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman, the groom's parents, assisted in receiving. Mrs. Kennedy wore a beautiful gown of black lace, over white silk. Mrs. Sherman's costume was pearl crepe de chene, with point lace.

The house is admirably adapted for entertaining a large company, and a pretty feature of the arrangements was the enclosed verandas, making additional space and many attractive nooks. The dining-room was thus enlarged so that forty guests were seated at one time. This room was particularly effective in decorations of red roses, quantities of the velvety beautiful flowers being used. The bedrooms of the suite were entwined with crimson rambler roses and the library and alcoves were bow-like in their adornments. In the bow window of the reception hall, Bauer's orchestra played during the afternoon. The decorations were placed by Clarke, Hanley catered.

A vast array of gifts was shown in the upper rooms. They included elegant furniture, a chest of silver, and quantities of rare bric-a-brac, silver, glass and other costly articles. These represented only a part of the presents the young people at their Newport home, where much of the furnishings of that home are in place.

The bride is a great favorite in this city, and it with regret that her departure is chronicled. She has many accomplishments, and has lived more than a butterfly existence since she left Bryn Mawr college. Dr. Sherman is a graduate of Harvard university and has taken up the practice of medicine in his old home at Newport, where his family is one of much prominence and distinction. He is a man of brilliant attainments. Dr. and Mrs. Sherman's home will occupy an old colonial house, closely connected with the earlier history of New England.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Sherman, Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Barker, Williston Barker, Edward Sherman, of Newport; Miss Lindenberg, of Columbus; Rev.
